

Burial records for old St. Mary's Cemetery, Albany, NY

- cemetery formally located on Washington Ave. where Albany High School is currently located -

St. Mary's Cemetery opened in the early 1800s and burials continued well into the 19th century before it closed and bodies were removed to other area Catholic cemeteries (mostly St. Agnes Cemetery, Menands) between 1875 and 1917. A book noting the names of the deceased removed from St. Mary's Cemetery very mysteriously went missing, making records from the Church itself all the more valuable from a historic perspective. In 2010, Kelly Grimaldi, Historian for Albany Diocesan Cemeteries and Sister Nola Brunner, archivist at the time for the Roman Catholic Diocese of Albany made a trip to Historic St. Mary's Church on Lodge St., Albany to inspect records. We did not find interment books for the old cemetery, though four shoeboxes full of alphabetically arranged index cards with names and presumably the dates of death for 2,723 people spanning 1841 – 1890 were found. We do not know if the records are complete. We do know many burials noted on the cards include burials that occurred in other cemeteries after a funeral in St. Mary's Church was held. This is particularly true after St. Agnes Cemetery (Menands) opened in 1868. We were given the boxes to take back to St. Agnes. Though most lack any information other than name and a date, the records are all we currently have of old St. Mary's Cemetery. I remain hopeful the burial records will resurface someday. If they do, I'll do my best to ensure the information they contain is preserved and made available to researchers. - Kelly Grimaldi, 1/21/2021
